- ED2216 - IT Teaching methods
- PHY 102: Kinetic theory of matter and thermodynamics

Teacher: Dr. Mayam Ismail

This is a Distance Training Program Module, for level 1 student. In this module, you will study the kinetic theory of matter and thermodynamics. On earth, matter is usually found in 3 states: solid, liquid and gas. Liquids and gases are also called fluids. Fluids do not maintain their shape but they flow. In the first block, you will learn more about the states of matter. You will see that the states of matter and their properties can be

When logged in, you will see My courses at the bottom of course Categories.

Each course will show its name, for example:

ED2216: IT Teaching Methods

And you will see the Facilitators (teachers of that course)

Step 4: Access to course materials (Resources and Activities)

You click on the course name and you are inside your course to follow all resources (Notes and files for reading purpose) and activities (Forum for discussion/collaboration and asking any question, Assignment and Quiz as assessment tools to be done and send the answers to your teacher).

You will be asked to read each and every information appearing to you. Some are links to read and others are files to download.

NB: For any problem to ask teacher or idea to share with your classmates, use the Forum in your course.
